HEADS OF FAMILIES ARE REPRIMANDED BY THE JUDGE

Two vags and five drunks were up before Judge Reeder in Police court this morning all of whom were treated with lenience.

Will Johnson, a mere youth, faced the first charge. He had walked into town from Salt Lake City and made the mistake of "mooching" on one of the local plain-clothes men, who brought him to the station. Judge Reeder allowed him to go with a five day suspended sentence. John Horigan, the other vag, had his case continued until tomorrow morning.

R. M. Rogers and L. M. Richards, plain drunks, were given five-day suspended sentences and the case of D. Rodriguez was continued until tomorrow, to give him time to sober up. James Sandel and W. Reed, both heads of families, underwent a scorching lecture from the judge as to their paternal duties. Both promised to straighten up and to take proper care of their families and they were allowed their freedom with a six months' sentence to serve, if they are again caught under the influence of liquor. Reed is the man who drove his family from home late last night.

FOREST SERVICE TO AID IN BUILDING AUTO ROAD

Along the route that it now appears will be taken by the Lincoln Memorial highway from Ogden west, the road from Ogden to Ely is kept in fair condition by the interest of automobile travelers and others between Ogden and Salt Lake, and between Salt Lake and the large mining interests at Ely. On the western end, traffic between San Francisco and points as far east as Reno keep the road in repair and open except for short periods following heavy snows in the high Sierras. The present poorest road is therefore between Ely and Reno via Eureka and Austin, in which there is considerable sand and the steep and relatively unimproved road through Blackbird canyon and over the "Austin Summit" in crossing the Tolyabe range. Indeed, the Blackbird canyon has been perhaps the most dreaded of any part of the stretch westward from Ogden and Governor Odell, in approving the project for road construction in the Nevada national forests, recommended construction first of all of the Blackbird canyon road. On account of the occasional downpours of rain in Nevada, roads previously constructed, which followed in general the beds of the streams or the banks close to them, were subject to frequent washouts, and without careful planning by an engineer it was impossible to avoid so many sharp turns that an automobile could not attain a start to get up a hill, but must maintain continuous low gear. Furthermore, the freighters, who usually have a trailer and sometimes three wagons, carry a "shoe" or pair of shoes, with which they block the wheels of the rear wagon when descending the steeper grades. This, especially when the ground is damp and soft, forms ruts in the best roads and when water starts to coursing down, gullies are formed which ruin the road for automobiles. It is therefore, very desirable to lower the percent of grades to a point where the freighters can hold their wagons by means of brakes. The new road will not exceed a grade of 10 per cent at any place with an average of 8 per cent.

If the road through the Blackbird canyon, which is within the Tolyabe forest, could be constructed on the south side of the canyon the engineering would be very much simplified, according to Supervisor Collins, but it is desired to build a road that will be open, unobstructed by snow, the year round, and to insure this the road must take the north side of the canyon.

Early in the fall District Forester Sherman allotted $3500 for the construction of this road, but Mr. Collins awaited the arrival of an engineer from the district office to assist in laying out the road on the best possible lines. Unless prevented by storms, J. C. Brown, who is now on the Tolyabe forest, will run this survey in connection with a representative of the state engineer from Carson City, and it is hoped that construction work may be begun in the early spring. It is planned to raise the grade sufficiently when crossing depressions and gulches that it will not be overflowed and gullied.

A GOOD PLACE TO TRADEHow We Help Early Christmas Shoppers

A hundred packages a day are being laid away in our Christmas Package Room. These packages are goods which have been selected by those who appreciate the advantage of shopping early.

Remember the crowds of the last week before Christmas — some of the articles which you wanted at that late hour were sold. It is a most reasonable conclusion that selections are better today than they will be later. There is absolutely no advantage in waiting until the last.

We do not require that you have the cash now. We ask only that you make the selection now and make but a small deposit. That reserves any article in the store until you are ready for it.

This plan is tremendously popular — a hundred packages a day is about the average for the past few weeks. This rule applies to any merchandise in the store.

Truly, there are more Early Christmas Shoppers this season than ever before. We have your interests at heart when we advise that you "Shop Early."
